Preparations

1. Make sure your computer meets the minimum requirements. (Link)
2. Make sure your MT4 is connected to your broker and there is a live feed.
Note: Some brokers will close down the feed during weekends and you might not be able to verify the installation if that is the case.
3. Check if your broker is using pre/suffix on the currency pairs and enable DLL imports in MT4 options.
4. From the order confirmation email, you will have a link to download both installation file, manual installation in a ZIP file and the PDF installation guide.
5. If you're running Windows 10, download the automated installation file.
6. If you're running Windows 7, you might need to use the manual installation found in the downloadable ZIP file in the bottom of your confirmation mail.
7. For Mac users with a Simplicity supported VM and Windows, same procedure as above applies.
8. Make a backup of the downloaded content as well as store the order confirmation email in a safe location (to be used for updates).
9. Follow the installation instructions on the following pages carefully.

Installation

(with installation file)

1. Close all MT4's.
2. Run the installation file.
Either double click on the "Simplicity.ex4" file or right click and select "Run as Administrator".
3. You might get a Windows prompt where you will be asked to continue, or "Windows protected your PC" .... Either click on "Continue" or "More info" and thereafter "Run anyway".
There are no trojans or viruses in the program. The only reason the warning comes up is that Simplicity is not a Windows registered product.
4. Enter your license information.
When you have finished your purchase procedure you will receive an email with your license code. Copy the license code from that confirmation email and click "Next".

Make sure you copy or enter the license key exactly as it is written in the confirmation email. No space before or after the key is allowed.

5. License Agreement
Confirm you accept the agreement and click "Next".

Installation

(with installation file)

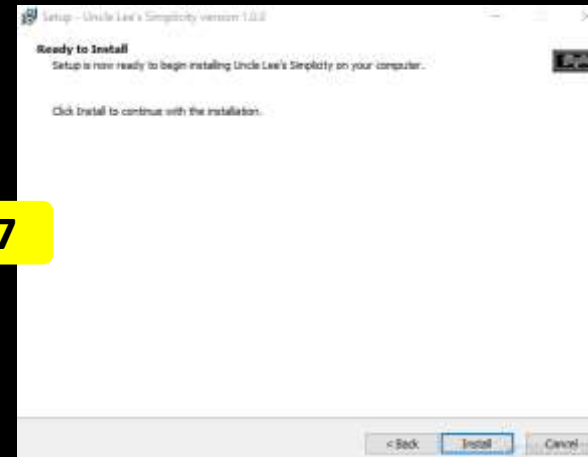

6. MT4 installation identification.
You will now be asked to identify the MT4 platforms where you want to install the Uncle Lee's Simplicity.
By default all your MT4 installations will be selected.
If you want the Simplicity installed only on specific MT4s, you need to uncheck all others and click "Next".
7. When you're ready to install, click on "Install".
8. Click "Finish" and the installation is complete.
9. Open the MT4 platform that you have installed the Simplicity on and you will find a couple of new indicators and new templates.

Multiple MT4 Platforms

- Uncle Lee's Simplicity is licensed for use on one account or MT4 in use at a time.
- You are not able to run the Simplicity on multiple PC's, MT4's or accounts at the same time.
- You can however install the Simplicity on as many MT4's as you please and you can switch between the accounts as long you are closing down the Simplicity correctly
(See knowledge base for more information .... LINK)
- You are also able to run multiple charts on the same MT4 with the Simplicity templates, whereby you are able to scan your selected pairs and TF's on multiple settings.

Troubleshooting tips

- If your getting a License status information screen as shown to the right, you have probably not entered the license key correctly. Retry the installation file and make sure the key is entered exactly as shown in the confirmation mail.
  - Make sure there are no “spaces” before or after the license key.
  - Make sure you’re connected to the internet.
- If your chart does not appear as the example on the previous page, it might be that your MT4 is not communicating to the internet.
  - Check that you have enabled DLL imports in the MT4. (Tools > Options > Expert Advisor > tick “Allow DLL imports”)
  - Check that your antivirus, firewall or malware protection programs allow MT4 and DLL’s to communicate to the internet.
  - Check if your broker uses a pre/suffix and if it does you need to update the CurrencyPairs parameter (check the user guide or feature list for more information) of the Simplicity indicator.
- Simplicity license restrictions
  - Simplicity license is valid to use on ONE MT4 or broker account at a time.
  - If you have installed Simplicity on multiple accounts or MT4’s, you might get a similar License status information window as seen on the right side with the option to switch license over to another MT4 account.
- If you’re still not able to get it up and running, contact one of the admins in the Simplicity telegram group, Uncle Lee’s support group, or open a support ticket on the product page. (Link)
