Mail #11: “DAODZAN” and “Extreme Level” templates

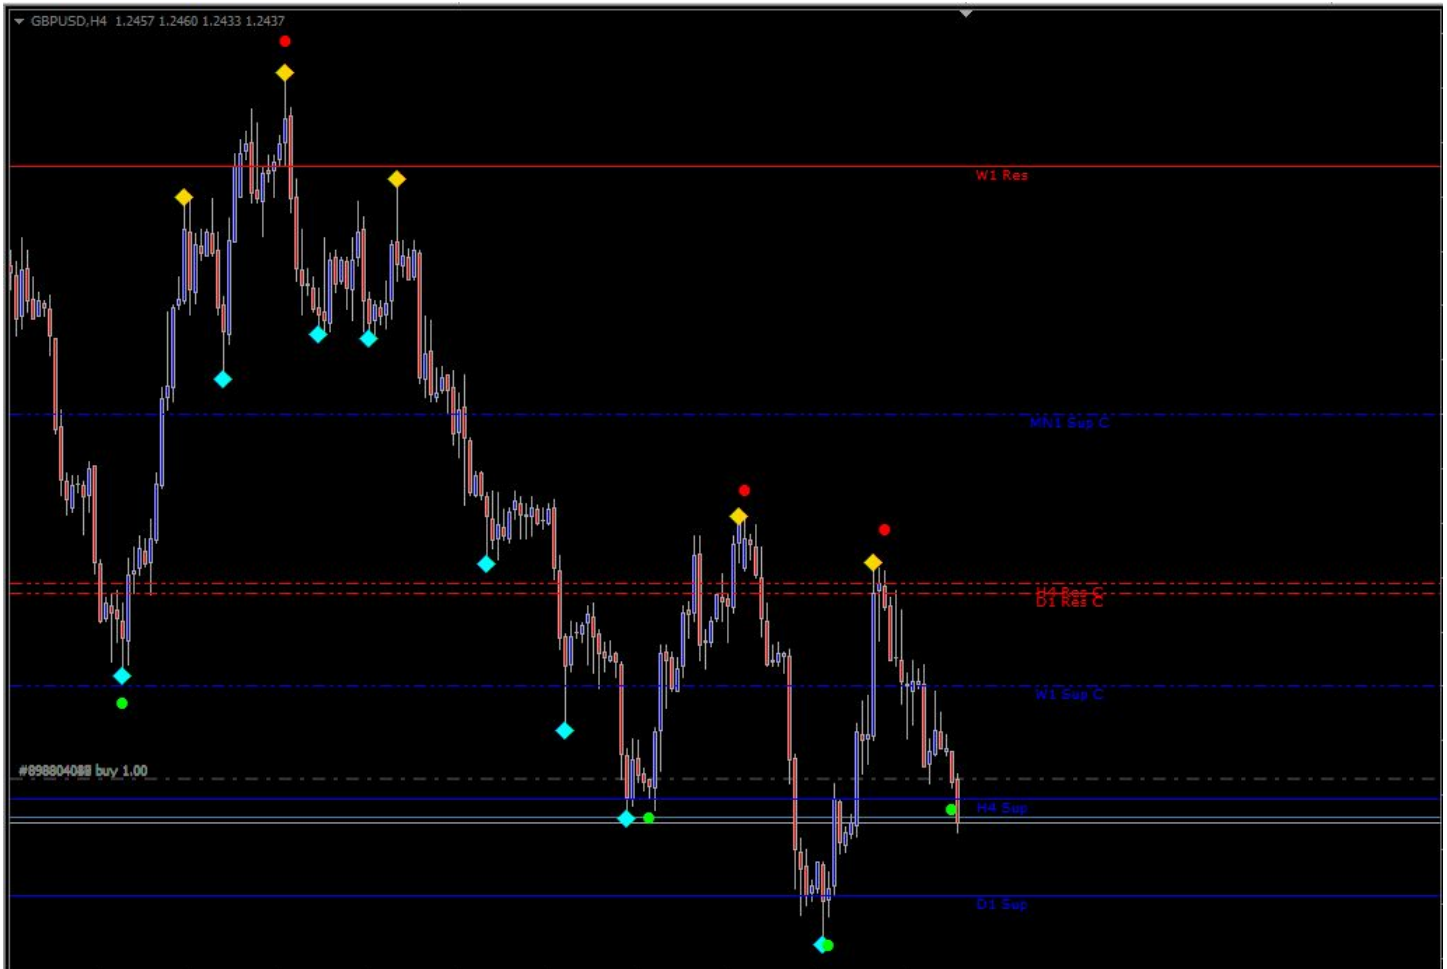

Starting with mail #11, amdudus made two new templates: “DAODZAN” and “Extreme Level”.

I think that your system should at the beginning of the session provide clear coordinates for possible daytime traffic.
 So, today, July 22, the movement of the pound may be within:
 sales for correction and false from 1.2475 or rebound from 1.2509.
 The target will be 1.2431 and 1.2383.
 Here at 1.2383 only purchases for a rebound is small.
 Then just move between the points.
 An example below.

Day trading: how to trade profitably?

Day trading forces you to make quick trading decisions while receiving the profit or loss every day. If you like to trade in a day then you will be interested to know my advice on day trading that I have collected in today's article.

Not all tools are the same

If you read books on technical analysis, most of them will tell you that the trends in the market occur in 30% of cases. However, I found that this is not entirely true. For some trading tools trend movements occur more frequently than others.

I tried to use a simple strategy of trend trading:

Buy on the breakout of the high of the previous day.

Hold long positions until the price reaches the low of the previous day, where a short position.

Hold short positions as long as the price does not break the previous day's high, which opens the long position.

Take profit fixed – 50 points. Stop loss triggered in a coup position.

At the bottom of the trading results for this strategy on two trading tools that prove my point.

GBP/USD yield curve moves up:

This suggests that GBP/USD strategy trend trading works well.

AUD/CAD – yield curve moves down:

Now we see the yield curve moving down. This means that for AUD/CAD strategy trend trading does not work.

We can conclude that a trader who trades within the day, it is important to know what trading tools are most often traded in the trend or consolidation. This will allow us to use the appropriate trading strategy for each type of market.

How to understand the potential of trading tool?

The market is like a car running on gasoline. He can go very far with the amount of fuel in the tank is sufficient. However, when the gasoline runs out, the car will stop.

How can we understand the potential price movement? We can use the ATR indicator and to observe its historical volatility.

EUR/USD daily ATR:

As you can see, EUR/USD has an ATR of 50 points. This means that EUR/USD is moving about 50 pips per day.

This does not mean that EUR/USD will turn around every time he made a movement of 50 pips for the day. He can pass and more than 50 points. But if the market will move is equal to 2 ATR for the day, so he'll probably be exhausted and is unlikely to reach new highs or lows.

EUR/USD – the price is set after achieving the 2 ATR:

How to determine the turning points of the market?

Intraday trading is a fast pace.

The level that was observed a few days ago, may be useless, so you have to regularly redraw the levels.

One thing I found useful in my trading is to determine highs or lows of the previous week.

Because it is an extreme point of price movement before a reversal takes place. It is also the future landmarks of where the market may find support or resistance.

We need:

To determine the highs and lows of the previous week.

To draw horizontal levels.

However, some trading instruments are much stronger bounce off of weekly highs or lows than others.

How to understand that the market can occur a strong movement?

The volatility in the market is constantly changing. The market moves from low volatility to high volatility and Vice versa. This means that if the volatility of the previous days low, soon it will increase.

Below is an example:

How can you use it for intraday trading?

If you enter a trade in low volatility, you can think about how to expand the size of the take profit as price can make a big move in your favor when volatility increases.

One of the ways to trade is to take half of your profit with risk reward ratio 1:1, and for the remaining part of a position use trailing stop. Also, you should not trade on a rebound, when the price is in a state of low volatility for a long time, because at any moment a breakdown of the level and a sharp price movement can occur.

Volatile watches on the market is an opportunity to earn

What is the most profitable trading session to trade?

Obviously in London. During this period there will be much more trading opportunities.

You need to know the news release time.

During the news release, the spread widens because there is a lack of liquidity in the markets. So, if your stop loss is placed close to the current market price, it will most likely be affected.

Therefore, before the release of news is best to get out of position or to expand your stop-loss, to be ready for price fluctuations. In the first case, you may be out of the market if the price moves in your favor after the news is released. And in the second case, you can lose more than originally calculated. Therefore, each of the methods has its pros and cons.

Intraday trading and profitable trading opportunities

Support and resistance levels on a lower time frame are not as significant as compared to higher time frames.

This means that the price rebound on a lower time frame can be as low as 20-30 points, while the price rebound on a higher time frame can occur by several hundred points.

To find a profitable trading opportunity, we can wait for the price to approach the level of support or resistance on the higher timeframe, and on the younger timeframe to trade on the price rebound from the level.

Consider an example. The price approaches the support zone on the daily timeframe:

We are waiting for the breakdown level on a lower time frame. At this moment we will see a series of lower highs. Next, we need to see a false breakdown when the price rises above the level. This signals that buyers are now in control.

Higher highs and lows prices should be based on a higher timeframe.

Let's sum up

We learned about the 7 rules of intraday trading, which work well:

We must consider the trading instruments on which we trade. For some of them, trend movement is more typical, for some - consolidation.

The price is unlikely to be able to move more than the average 2 ATR per day. In this way, you can use the ATR value as an indicator to determine how far the market can go.

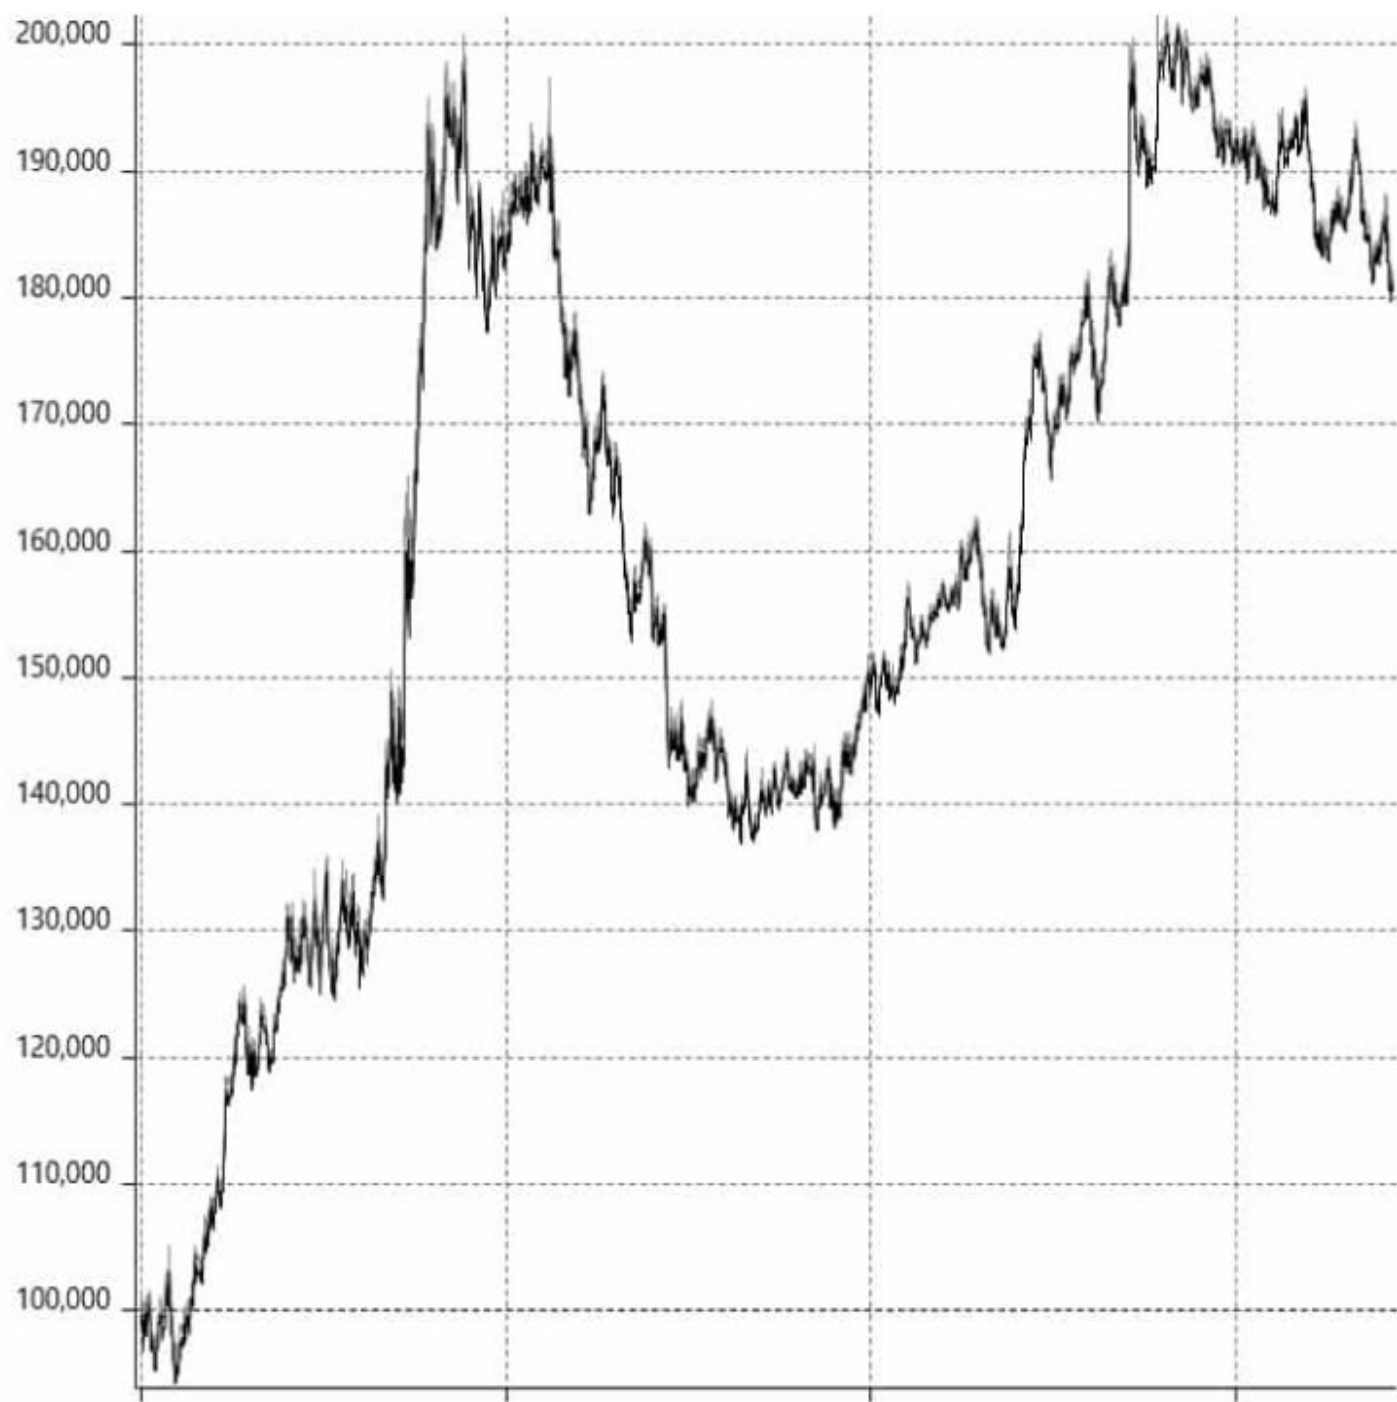

The high or low of the previous week are important levels to pay attention to.

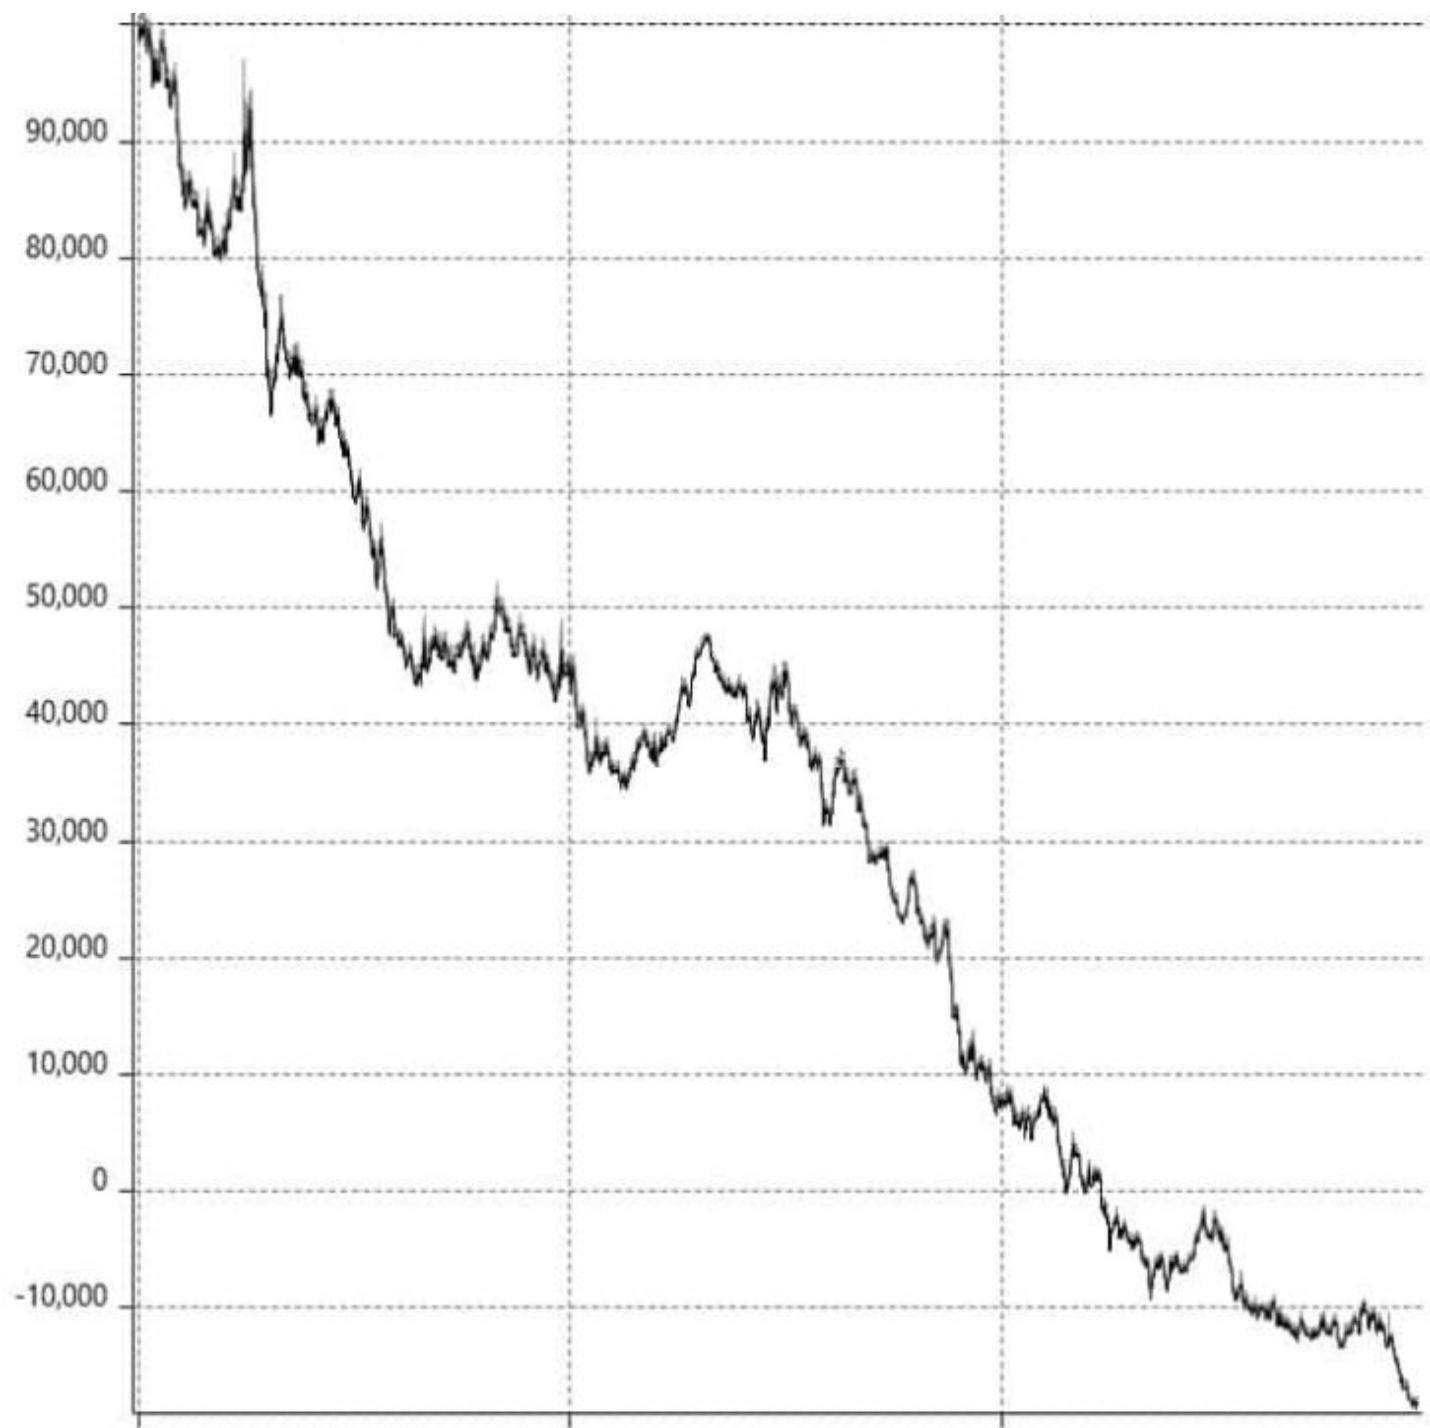

If the volatility of the market has been low in the past few days, it can be expected that the volatility will increase in the near future.

It is best to trade in the most volatile trading session.

Stay up to date with the news, as the spread tends to expand at this time.

The best entry points to the market will be near support and resistance levels on higher time frames.

In MAIL 11, you will receive two templates on which you can start working.
 Below is a view of the templates and the result is 36% of the deposit for today.
 In the morning I made a forecast. Several posts earlier. Work on only one pair.
 At the same time on the M1, M5 and M30 timeframes. Analysis on M30, H1, H4. Three monitors.
 Stop loss and take profit I have not set for the second year. They are simply not needed.

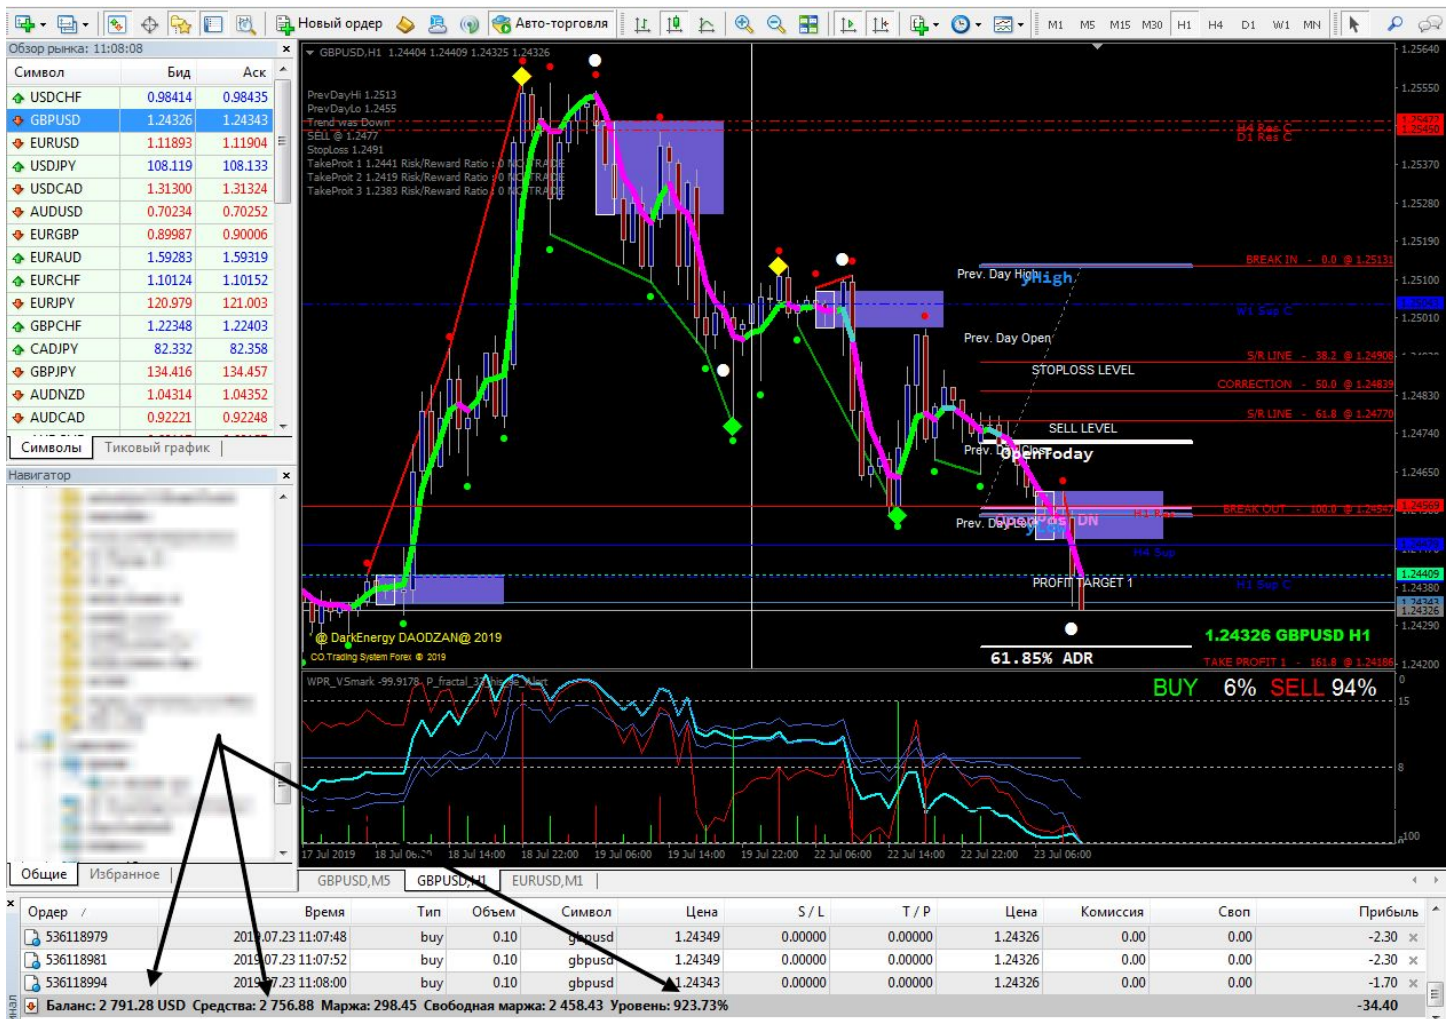

To make a forecast, use these two templates.

Wed, July 24, 2019, 12:04 AM, Today we will work on EUR. The following daily scenario is assumed.

I think the euro will be released today and is unlikely to continue selling at such a pace. Short positions after a false breakout at 1.1160 or rebound from 1.1180.

The goal will be a breakthrough of 1.1137, but there is a divergence there, so in the morning of the day of purchase from there on a false breakdown. If there is no one, then purchase after update 1.1110 and 1.1079. Somewhere like that. Parallel "polished" pattern.

Yesterday, late in the evening and this morning, I intentionally entered to trade in EURUSD. After yesterday's evening cross, it was clear that today the euro market will be practically without movement. It was also clear that before tomorrow's meeting of the European Central Bank, the volatility would be almost zero.

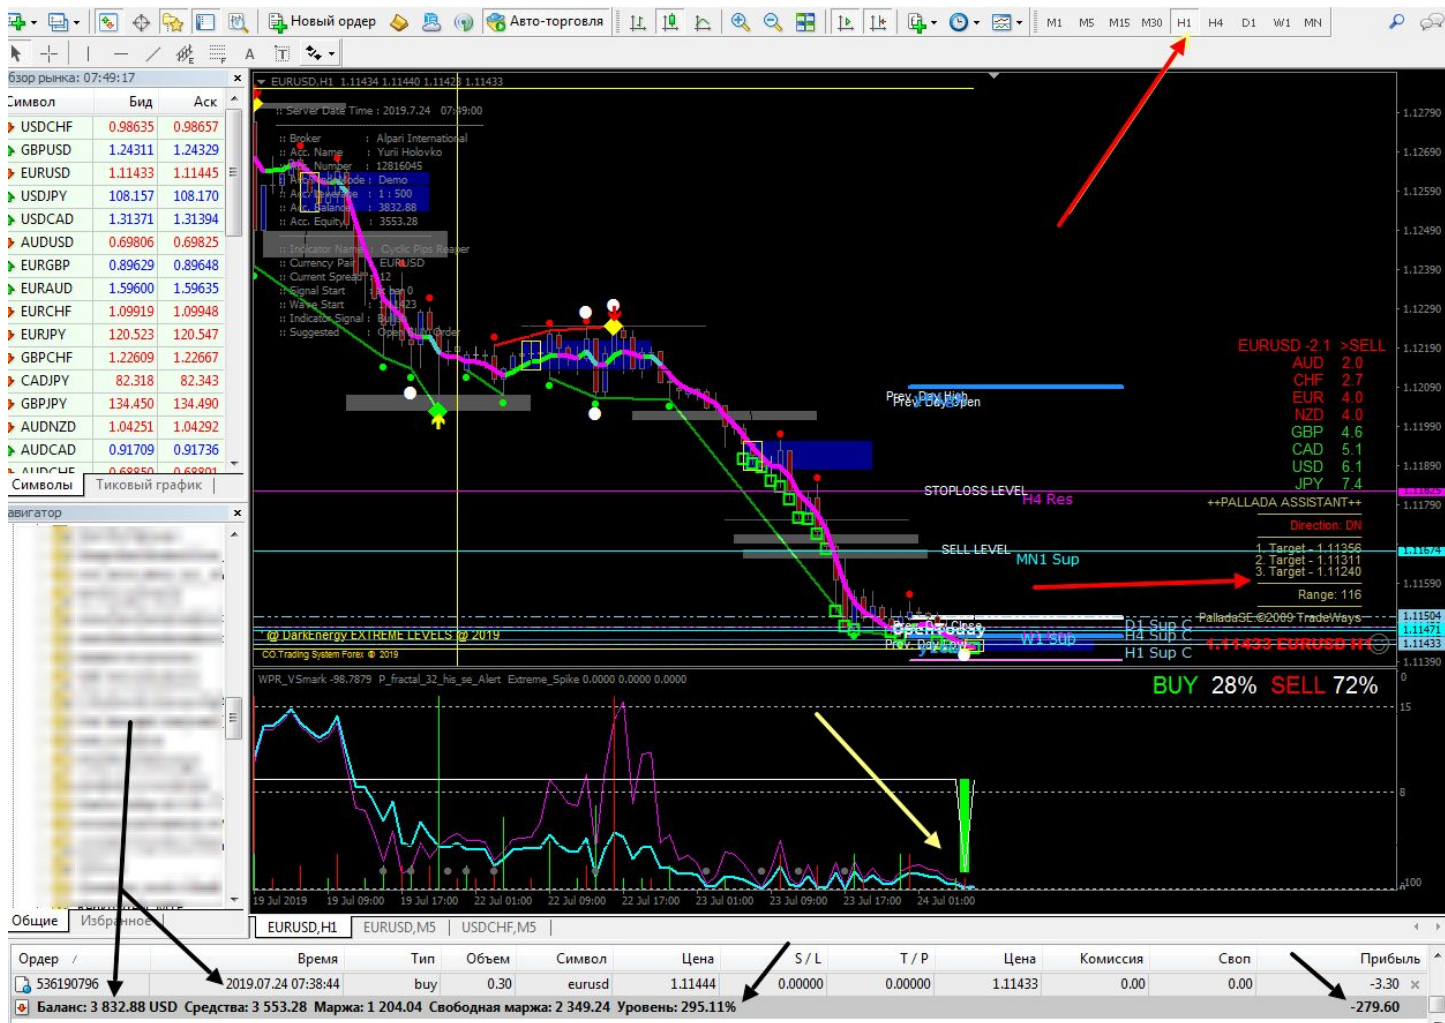

And what is your vaunted strategy? How will she show herself in such conditions?

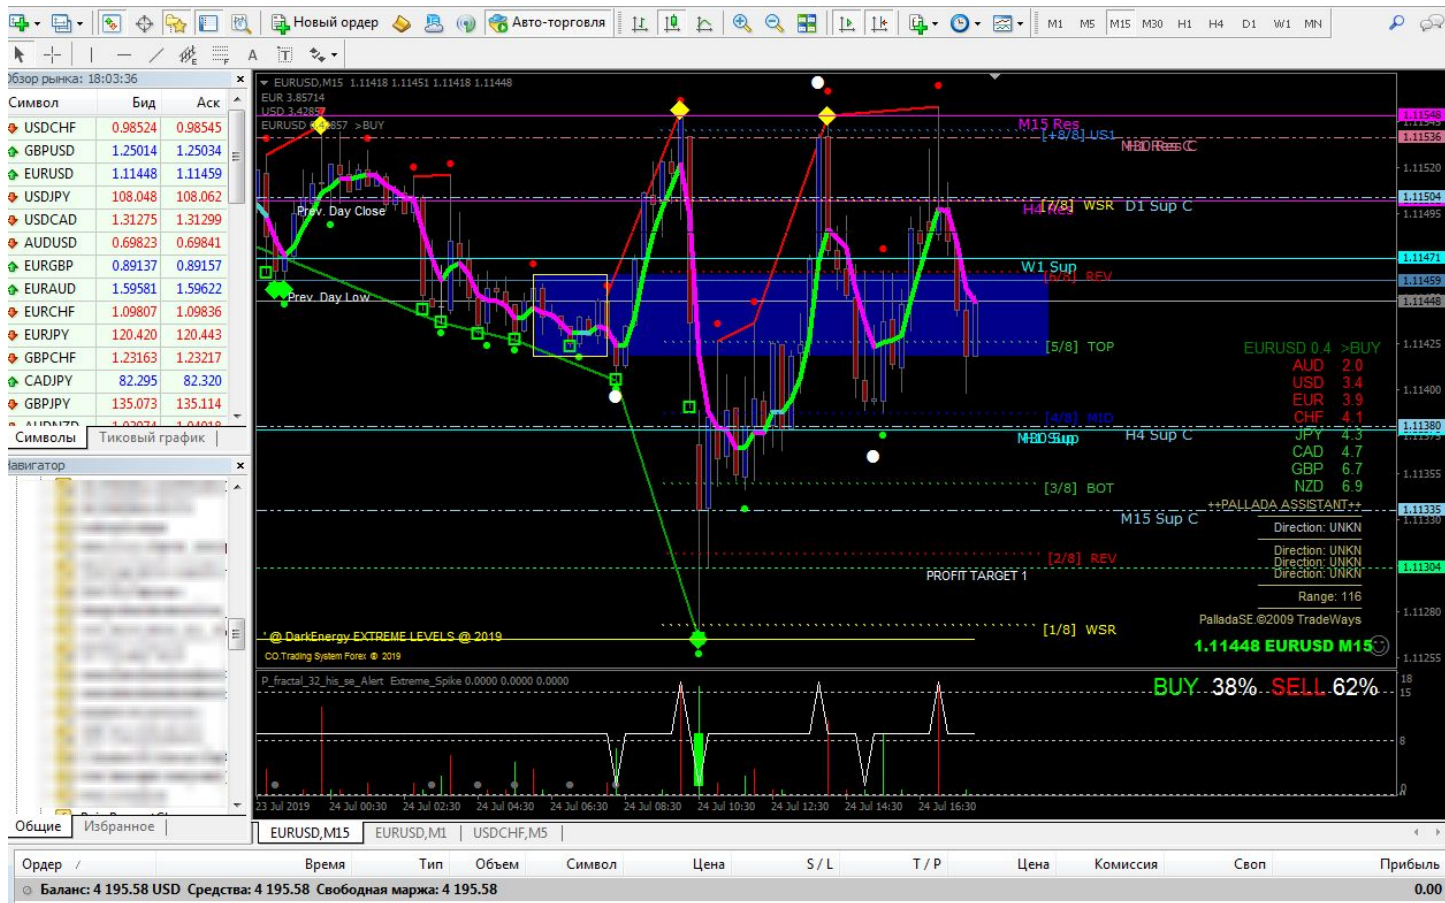

Below the result: an entrance with a deposit amount of 3771.98, an exit of 4195.58. This is about 12% of the deposit. I removed several open positions forcibly, without waiting for the result. This is seen on the screenshot.

In just two days, the deposit amount increased from 2,791.78 to 4,195.58 by 51%.

That is not clear is a trading system or a speculator? Or both? Or is it not another?

A few words about the new templates

This indicator of highs and lows prices. They work as resistance and support levels or as mirror levels. At my request, Mr. mrtools changed it. Now you can change the colors of the lines and the font size. For which many thanks to him.

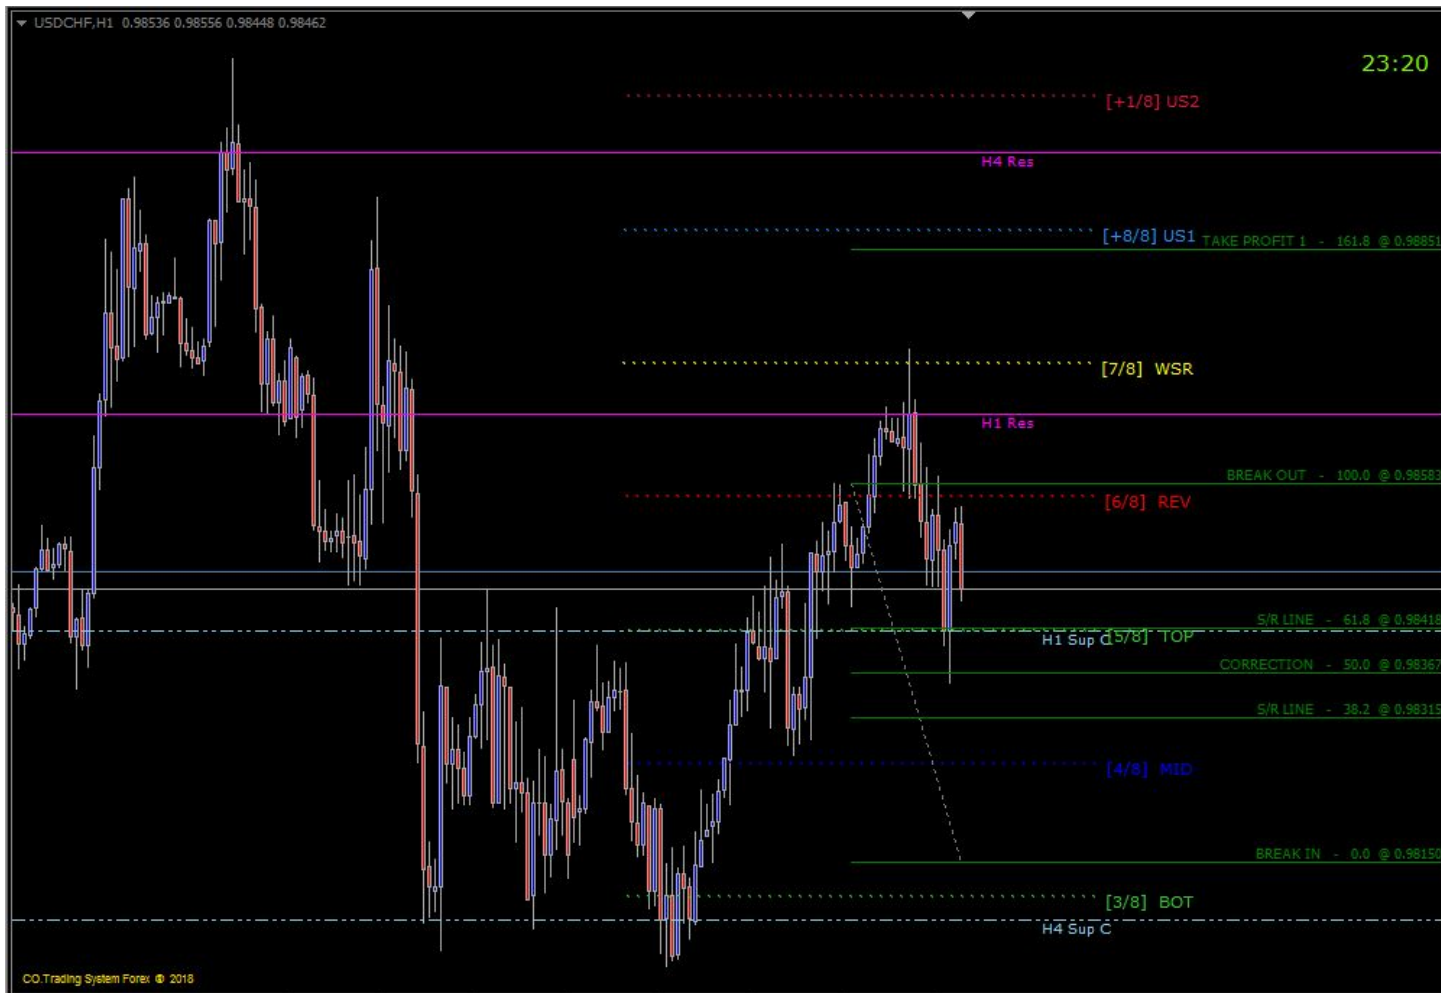

In the folder "Indicators" there is an AUTOFIBONACCI indicator which also works well and which can be installed or removed.

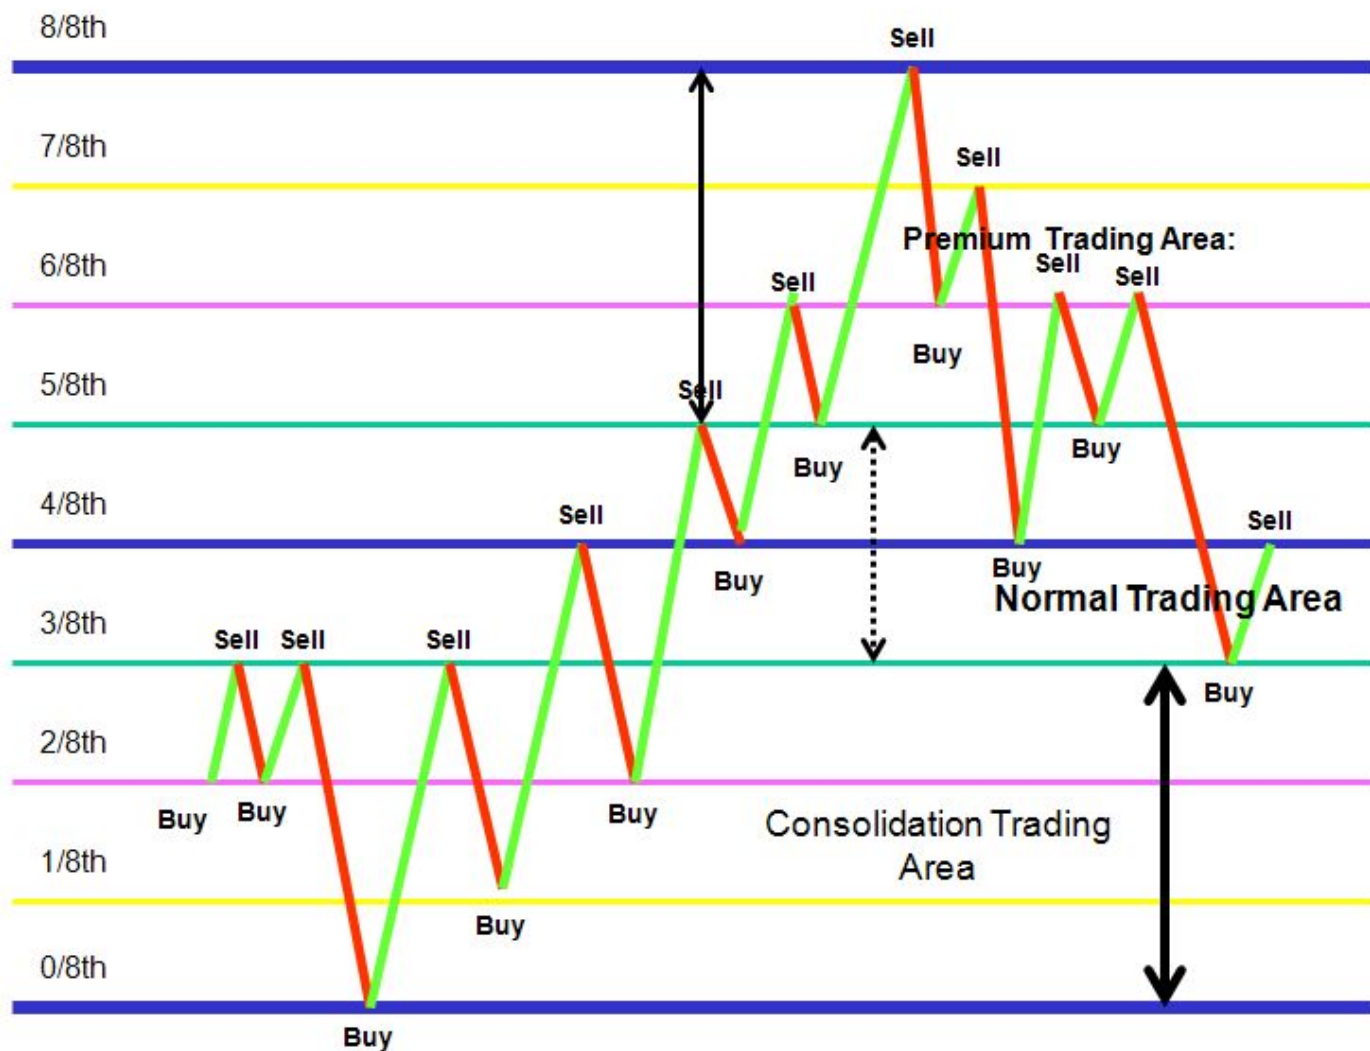

To control the movement of prices, you also use the levels of M.M.The screen clearly shows this.

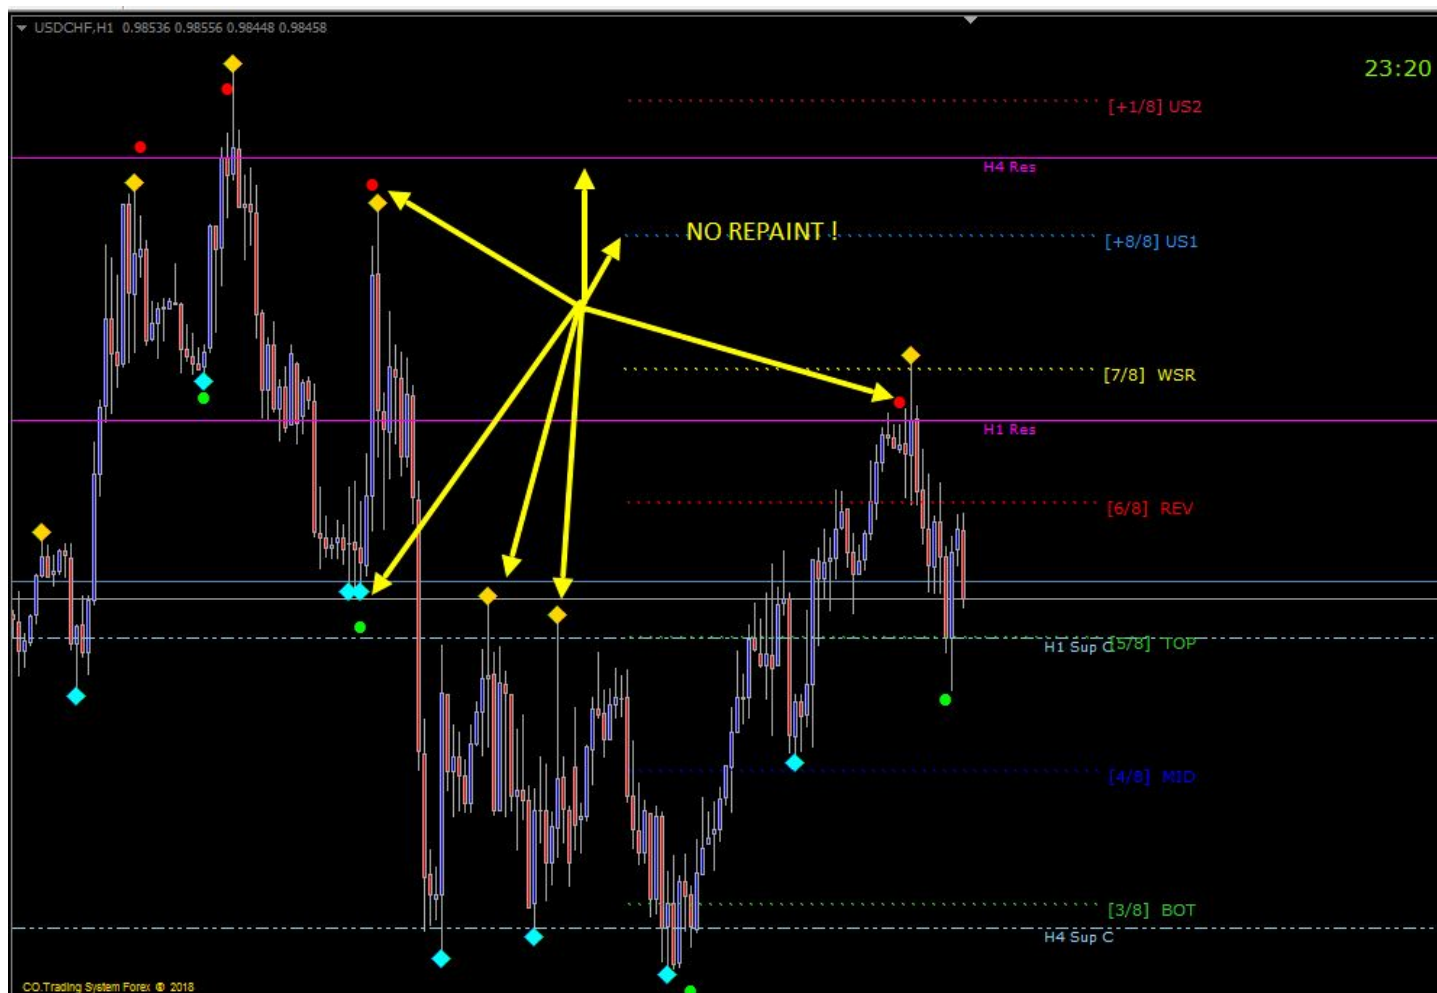

Here is a picture of all these levels. You can leave only the necessary or the most suitable ones for you in the template.

Turning prices (the formation of the trend (microtrend)):

1. These two indicators do not draw, are formed without delay on the zero bar.

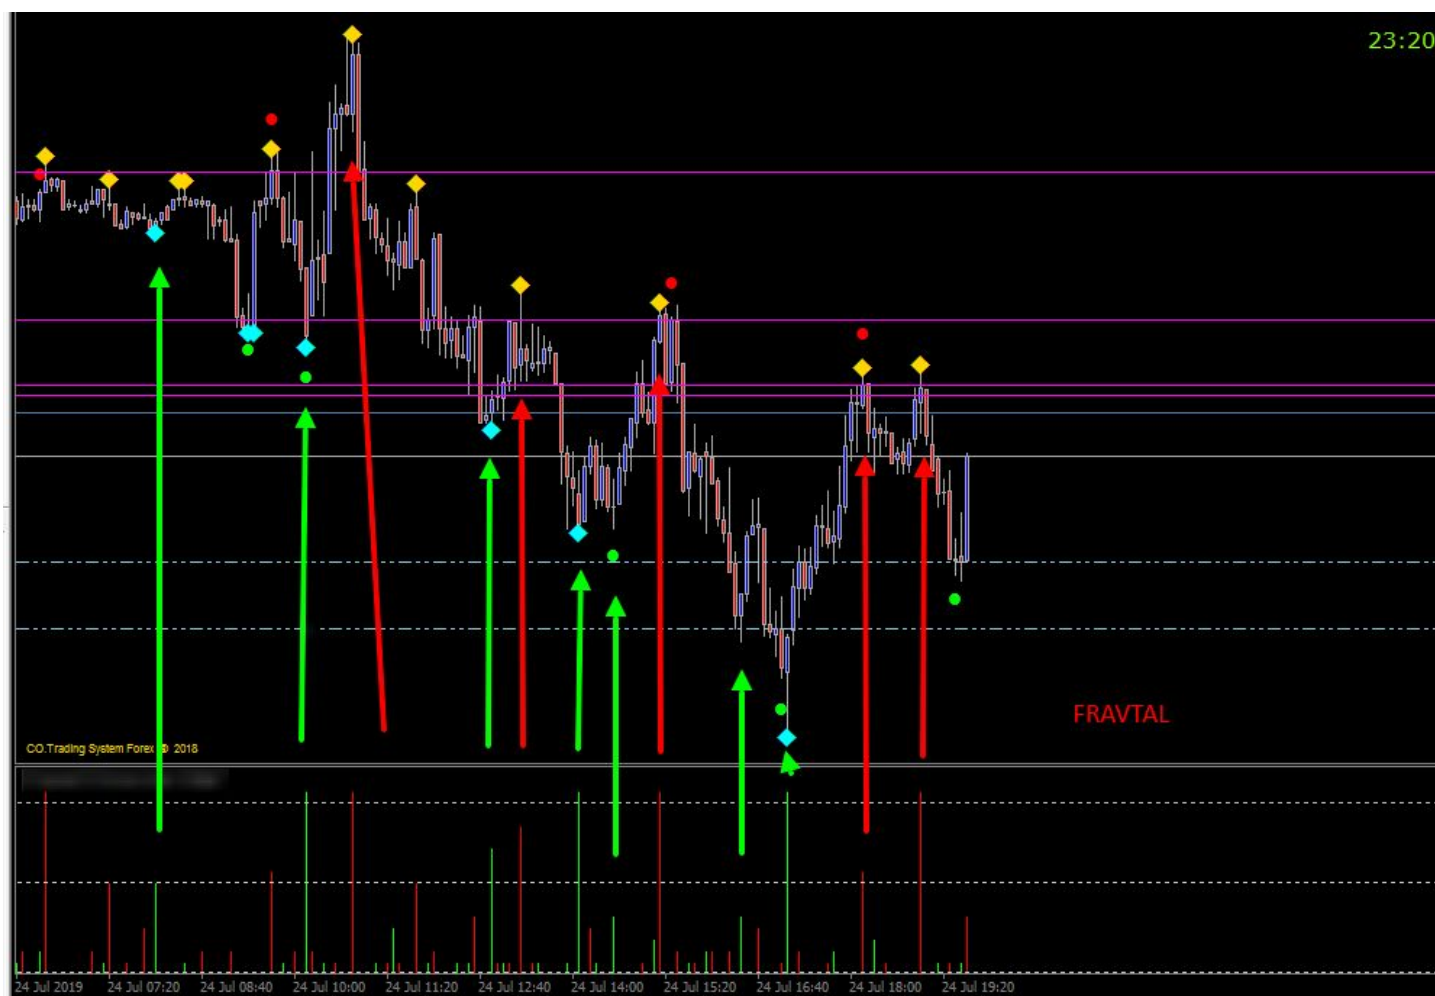

Turning prices (the formation of the trend (microtrend)):

2. The bottom filter in the form of peaks. Everything can be seen on the screen.

Turning prices (the formation of the trend (microtrend)):

2. The bottom filter in the form of lines of different colors. Everything can be seen on the screen.

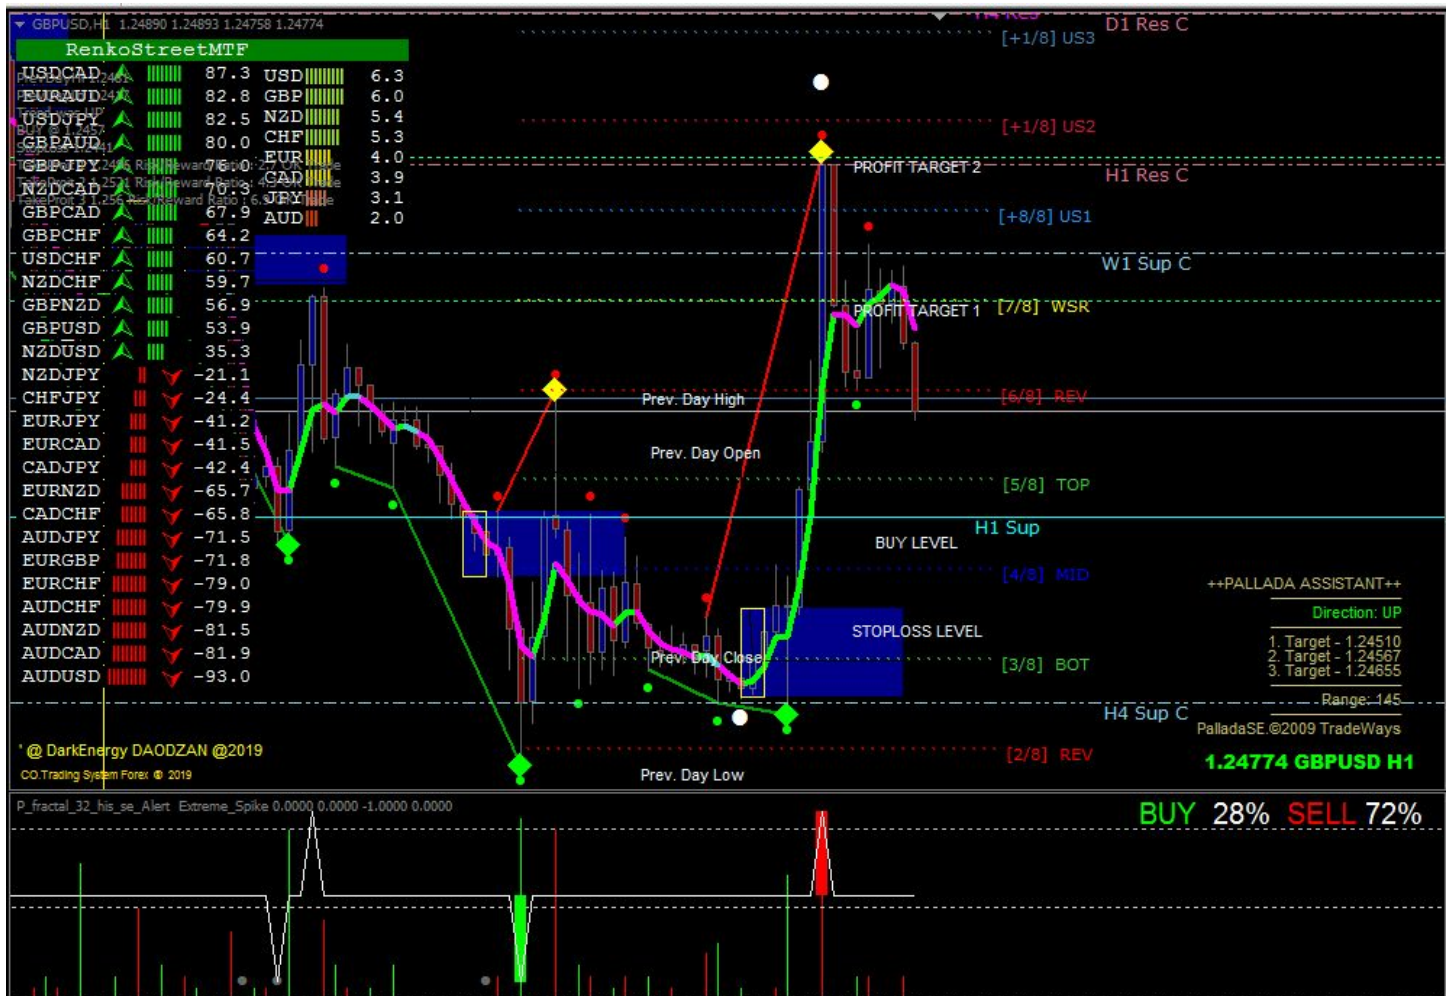

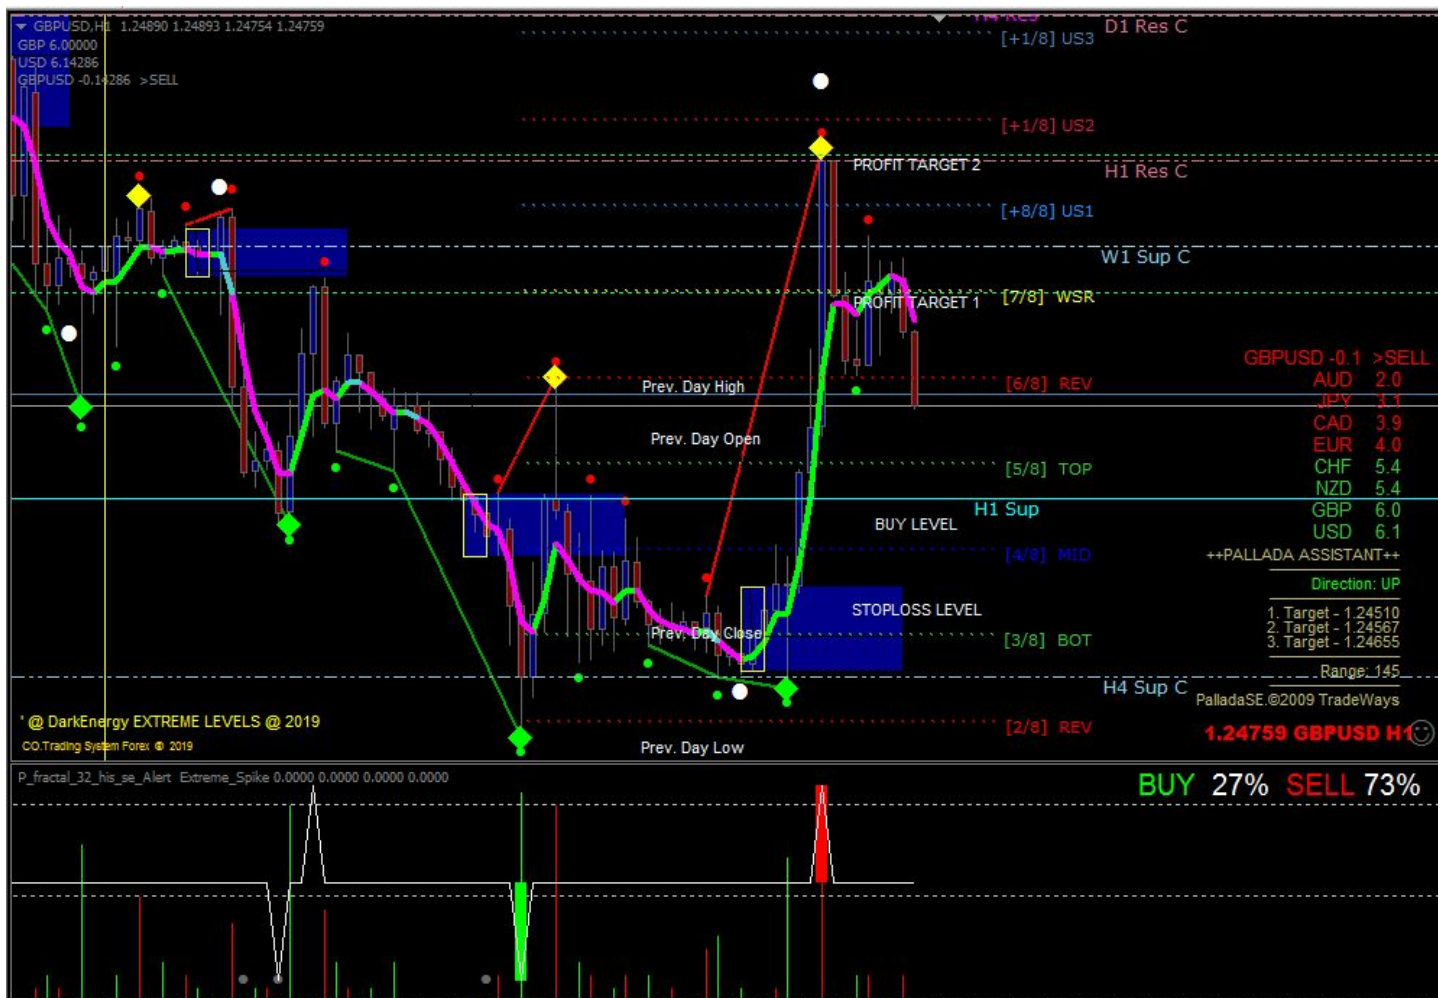

Here are the templates themselves.

As you can see, the difference is not big.

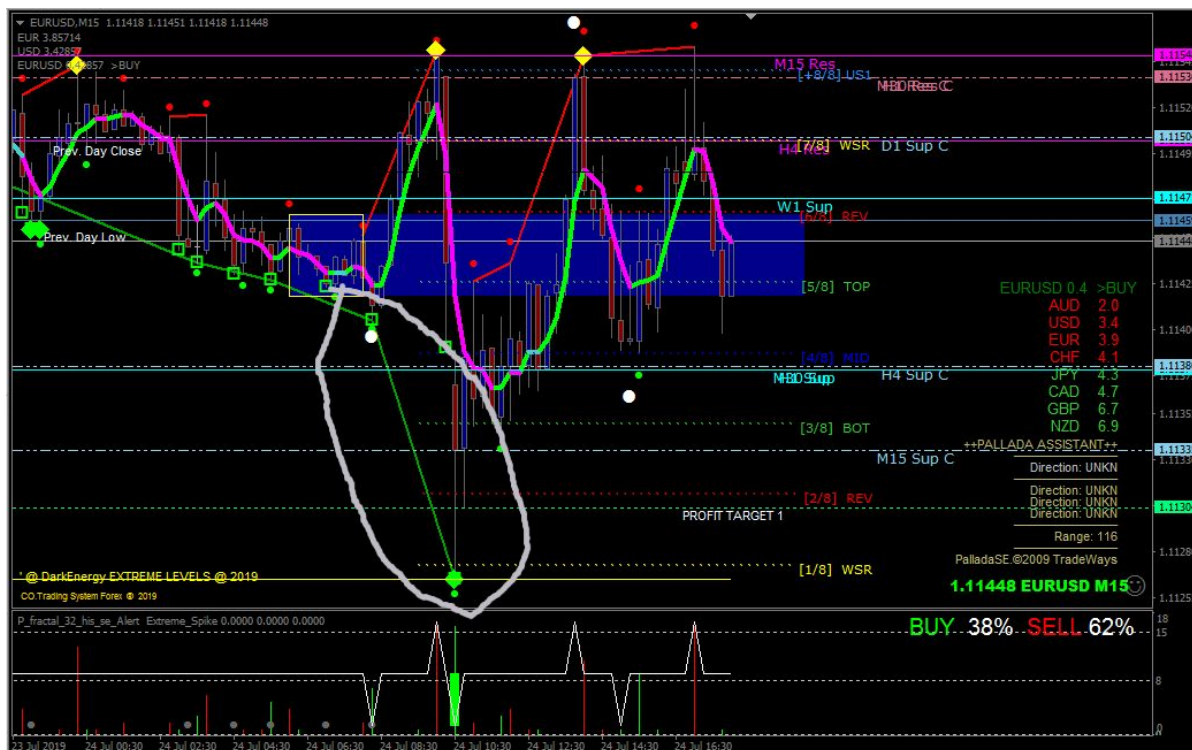

I strongly recommend using them for trading when I receive them

(naturally after a period of adaptation and understanding on a demo account or a minimum cent account).

friend4you: See white circle, how do you use the green and red divergence lines? Aren't they going lower with new lows?

Amdudus: Thank you for paying attention to an interesting topic. Of course, the market is moving and these levels are also making their way. So far, I have only noticed two cases:

1. Change the price quarter.
2. Capture clusters of established stop losses.

The screen shows where traders set stop-loss.

Why is this so?

Earlier, I used the indicator of stop-loss clusters, about which there is a lot of information, in my opinion, in the post Partizan, and I clearly saw that 80-90% (not all!) of price “trips” are connected precisely with the seizure of these clusters by a larger investor.

The second question arises from the first one.

Why should I set a stop loss and take profit in the case of inputs, as in the screenshot below?

I just open a warrant + orders with refilling and wait. I close when a signal appears.

Repeatedly in the list 11 will probably be the best harmonic indicator.

Just not everyone could turn it on. The screen shows how.

The folder has additional indicators. And you will have a good trading system.

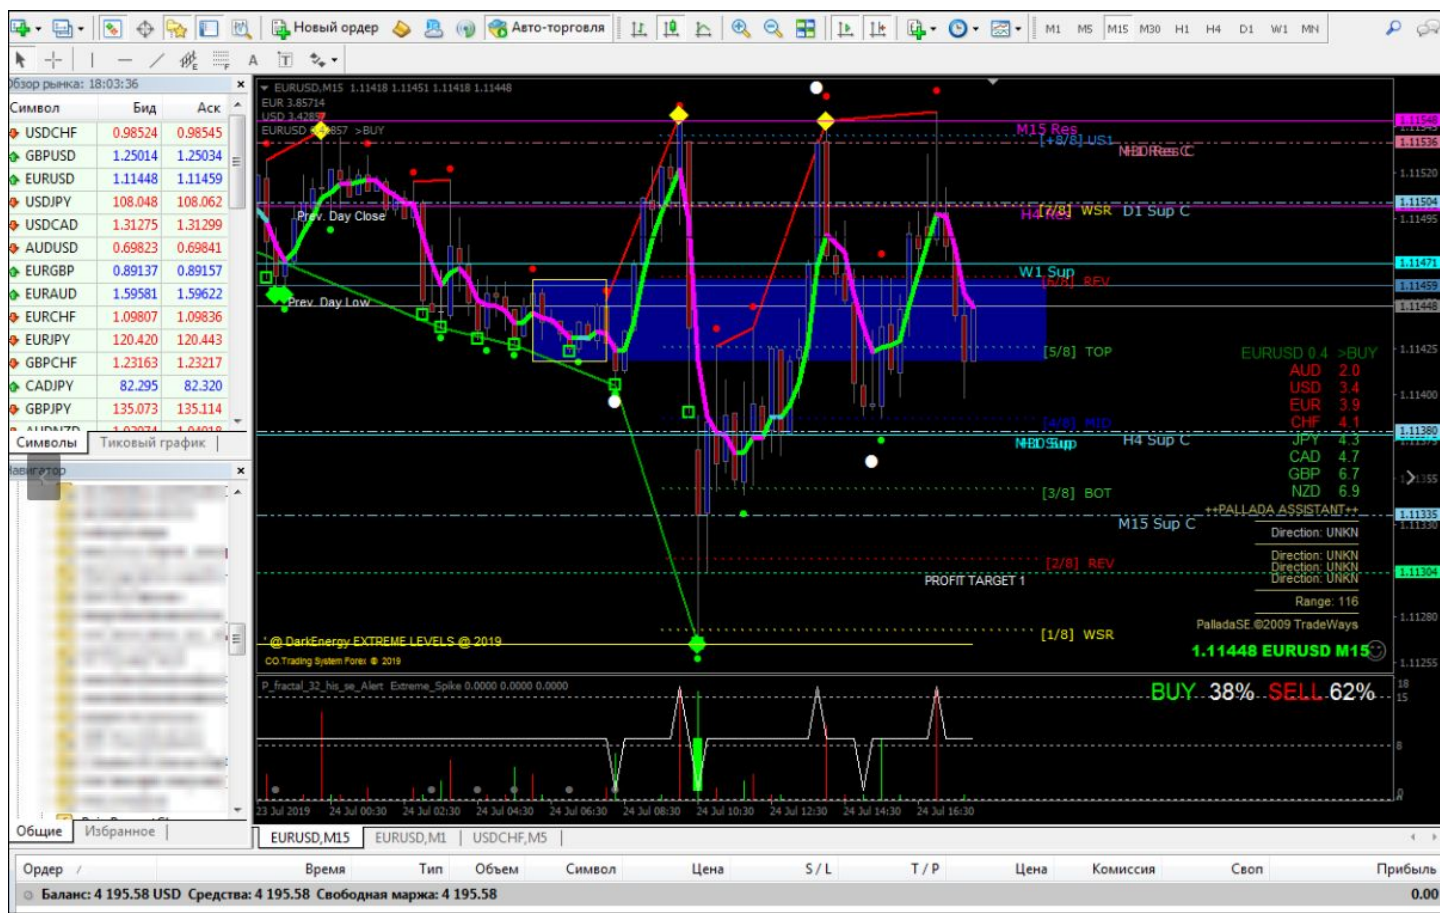

Day Three. The significant data of the deposit at the beginning of the day is 4195.58. Work from the afternoon after the news. The final deposit - 4986.62. 18.5% per day.

For three days, the deposit has been increased from 2791.78 to 4986.62.

The trading system works. I don't differ from you in any way. Therefore, you should get it. First, of course, on a demo, then on a cent account. And then And we should not forget, probably, about false confidence and about the safe rule.

Banzai! 😬 😊

This is practically the case. For a short period, you will learn how to use one timeframe. I also ask you to take into account the highs and lows and other filters of the system. I plan to lay out in more detail this week .. I want to add allergies, which should greatly facilitate the work. If everything works out

Below is the case when there is a buy signal, but levels can be pierced. Here will help indicator currency strength and other filters.

Darkenergy dots is an indicator after the "treatment" by our homebrew coder. It does not draw, but sometimes, when the price goes higher than half a bar, it tends to "freeze". Therefore, I use it together with other indicators.
