

There is no doubt that the BOW indicator is the best signal provider on the market. The accuracy is really high, but there are still some things you can do to snipe the best signals. It is actually really simple and with some practice it will improve your results significantly.

I know what you are thinking: "Can't I just place every signal from the indicator?". You can, but remember: there is no magic formula in trading, it takes work and time just like everything else. We will present the way we use the BOW indicator that brought us thousands weekly in profits.

Now let's get on with the tips!

Setup: On your on broker, set Bolinger Bands and RSI at default values.

STEP1: open 4 assets (the ones with the biggest win profitability) and drop the indicator over them and set the candlestick period to 1 min

STEP2: wait for the signal from the indicator

STEP3: don't place the trade right away, wait for at least 10-15 seconds and watch if the market is still going in the same way

STEP4: at the same time, the graph should break the RSI and BB and there should be at least 3 candles of the same colour

If all these things happen, it means that a trend reversal will follow. Take your time even if it means missing some good trades, there are a lot of signals and you should try to catch only the best ones.

LAST STEP: set the expiry time to 3MIN and place the trade! (if your broekr does not allow for that expiry you should go for 5MIN expiry)

OBS: Don't worry if you get more than one signal in a row on the same asset, it just means that you should wait a little longer before placing the trade, because the trend is still going in the same way.

This is the way our team reaches an accuracy as high as 90% on our signals! If you feel like your accuracy is not high enough, send us screenshots/videos of your trades and we will tell you what goes wrong.

May the trading odds be in your favour!
