

THE HEAT MAP INDICATOR

Another useful indicator that we can make use of is called "The Heat Map". It is not compulsory to use this and is provided as an additional tool that you might find useful when trading this system. It appears as follows on our charts:

Image 43

The Heat Map indicator can assist us to determine what the most volatile current currencies pairs are and thereby direct us to which currency pairs we could focus on for the best trading opportunities.

The Heat Map shows the major currencies:

Image 44

The Heat Map indicator also consists of two different colored bars – Green and Red.

When a bar is Green, this signifies that the relevant currency the bar refers to has been increasing in value on the day (since the day started at 00:00 AM). Please note that this time refers to your broker's time, not your local time (unless the broker is in your time zone).